A Response to Conflict and Violence

Conflict and violence, and our responses, are a preoccupation of the Biblical narrative, which begins with fratricide and continues with brotherly conflict in each generation, from Isaac and Ishmael to Jacob & Esau, from Joseph and his brothers to Moses and Aaron, and ending with the civil wars of the split kingdom and the massacres in Megilat Esther. The study and analysis of these texts and the vast body of thoughtful response recorded in rabbinic and other Judaic texts written over the past 3,000 years are sources of valuable insight.

Beyond the insights, the exercise of communal study of these texts enables us to learn to talk about difficult issues in a way that is removed from the intensity of the heartbreaking current events such as the massacre of children at the Sandy Hook School, or the violence between Gaza and Israel. It turns out that after we are done crying and hugging, we are not able to talk about ways to address our conflicts. On one side some people say that they can’t understand why everyone is so upset about 20 children killed when three dozen people are murdered every day in this country (not counting suicide), many of them children, and there is no comparable outcry, and on the other side some people find this observation deeply offensive. Some (not only the NRA) sincerely suggest that an armed guard should be placed in every gun shop. When talk turns to “who is to blame” it can almost lead to fisticuffs.

Emotion and prejudice can preclude thoughtful discussion of current events. But our experience of Torah study as a communal activity provides a set of shared knowledge and a framework for conversation that can help us evaluate and incorporate the insights provided by modern experts in human behavior.

In the brief interlude after the shock of disaster has passed but the determination to do something lingers, we can pause to appreciate the goodness in our lives. This appreciation is essential to our well-being – no matter how bad the reality. And when the emotional impact fades with the passage of time, as it will for all but the most directly traumatized, we can direct our efforts to building and maintaining our own strong community – that is, our own congregation. A caring community can moderate individual behavior and help us prevent individuals from getting too far off track. A collaborative committed community can give us a way to magnify the power of an individual to affect the world for the better. And a caring community can provide support, comfort and hope when tragedy does strike. Our congregation does that already, and with more commitment and effort could do even more. We are here for a reason.

BEKI-BJ Kadima Update

It was an exciting fall for 5th-8th graders at BEKI and B’nai Jacob. The Kadima group, led by myself, enjoyed a Pizza Night at the Sutin home in Woodbridge on November 17, where we ate delicious pizza and ice cream and played some games. With almost two dozen in attendance, it was a great success! Earlier in the fall, our Kadimaniks had some fun Shabbat hangouts and a Sukkot party and got a chance to meet kids from other Connecticut and Western Massachusetts chapters at the opening event for our regional group, Hanefesh, at the Sports Center in Shelton.

As I write this, our December activities are still to come, but there is a full program planned. On the second night of Chanukah, we will be celebrating by making latkes and eating doughnuts at B’nai Jacob. The following week we will hold the year’s first Kadima Leadership meeting at Edge of the Woods, where Kadima members will discuss ideas for upcoming events and Tiqun ‘Olam projects. At the regional level, there will be a Swim & Gym event at the West Hartford JCC.

Kadima has a great line-up of activities for this winter and spring. In addition to our monthly Shabbat hangouts, we’re planning a Dodgeball Tournament, a Purim Costume Party, a Kadima Shabbat Dinner, and a field trip to the Magic Wings Butterfly Sanctuary in Greenfield, MA. We also have some great Tiqun ‘Olam events, including joint projects with Music Haven and the Downtown Evening Soup Kitchen, as well as a visit to the Trash Museum in West Hartford to learn about recycling, composting, and reducing waste in our community and synagogue.

BEKI-BJ Kadima is a youth group for 5th-8th graders. We operate out of BEKI and B’nai Jacob, but we welcome kids throughout the Jewish community. Membership in BEKI-BJ Kadima helps to fund our chapter and regional events and projects throughout the year, so please join to support what we do! For more on membership, upcoming events, and contact information, check our website at bekibjkadima.blogspot.com.

Dear Friends,

We are part of a wonderful community with a spiritual home on Harrison Street. I lost my dad, Bob Silverman, a few days ago and as I sit here contemplating shiva and mourning, I am so grateful to be part of this holy community.

While I appreciated the food that kept appearing in our kitchen, so many of you took a lot of time out of your day to sit with us, clean up at night, and check in to make sure everyone and everything was ok, and I can’t thank you all enough. You have created a model for what a community based on chesed, lovingkindness should be. Several friends and family members were astounded at the outpouring of love shown to us and commented that they would love to replicate what we have here.

My dad came late in life to BEKI but I am so thankful he was able to enjoy the companionship of old, young, and new friends on recent Shabbat mornings.

Shiva is an odd fog of public displays of mourning and private time to begin adjusting to the new reality of life without a loved one. Toward the end of the shiva week I came across this quote from Deborah Lipstadt, a Shoah (Holocaust) historian:

“May we who live lives of such privilege and security be blessed with the wisdom and humility to live in a way that is worthy of being not just remembered, but of being emulated by those who will follow us.”

My Dad fully recognized that he lived a life of privilege and security, having lived through some very hard times. I pray I can live my life as he lived his, worthy of both remembrance and emulation.

Please accept my deeply heartfelt thanks for being part of our lives.

Shabbatot (Saturdays)

Darshanim

Darshan — noun, plural dar·sha·nim. Judaism. a preacher or teacher of Aggada or Halakha in a synagogue.

Rabbi Tilsen has invited the following speakers to serve as guest Darshanim in January and February.

Eitan Minsky-Fenick will serve as darshan on Shabbat morning Jan. 5, parashat Shemot. Eitan is a son of Yair Minsky & Ada Fenick and is celebrating his becoming a bar mitzva.

Nanette Stahl will serve as darshani on Shabbat morning Jan. 26, parashat BeShalah. Nanette is the curator for the Judaica Collection at the Yale University Library.

Shulamith Scharfstein Chernoff will serve as darshani on Shabbat morning Feb. 2, parashat Yitro. Shula is Professor Emeritus of Education at Southern Connecticut State University and a published poet. She is celebrating the anniversary of her becoming a bat mitzva 78 years ago.

Shabbat Shalom Torah Study

The Shabbat Shalom Torah Study meets every other Saturday morning at 10:45 in the office and is an ideal setting for veteran and novice shul-goers alike to explore the scripture readings and liturgy of the day in a supportive setting. Expertly led by Steven Fraade, with Rabbi Alan Lovins, Rabbi Murray Levine, Nadav Sela, David Kuperstock, Isaiah Cooper, Rabbi Eric Silver and others, the Shabbat Shalom Torah Study is a nurturing exploration of practice and theory presented in a participatory, non-threatening and multi-generational setting. Many members who take advantage of this unique offering feel a deeper sense of awe born of increased understanding and appreciation of the Torah reading, Haftara (Prophetic reading) and liturgy.

The program often focuses on the scriptural readings, but also addresses the prayer liturgy and other topics related to the liturgical calendar, scriptural readings or current issues of concern.

Everyone is welcome to participate regardless of religious status or background. It is suitable for mature, or at least well-behaved, youth along with adults.

New: Mishna Megila

On Shabbat afternoons in January and February following the mincha afternoon service (which begins at candle lighting time), explore Mishna Megila compiled in the third century by Rabbi Yehuda HaNasi of Tsippori, northern Israel. Megila deals with the laws of Purim and the exegesis of the Book of Esther, as well as the rules for reading Megilat Ester (Book of Esther), the Torah and other liturgical practices. Thirty minutes; with Rabbi Tilsen and others; Hebrew text and live oral translation provided.

Mondays

Rashi Study Group: Shoftim

Each Monday morning from 7:45 to 8:30 adults meet in the Library Chapel to read Rashi’s commentary on the Tanakh (Hebrew Bible). The Rashi Study Group (RSG) is studying the Book of Shoftim (Judges). Characters in the narrative include the Prophet Devora, Baraq, Yiftah, Mrs. Manoah, and Samson and Delila. It is possible to join the study group for a single meeting or to begin at any time. Knowledge of Hebrew is not necessary. Rashi purported to explain the peshat of the text, i.e., the meaning in its historical, literary and linguistic context. Visitors and new participants are welcome. Hebrew and English texts are available. The RSG meets immediately following the 7 a.m. shaharit service. On Monday Jan. 21, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, and on Monday Feb. 18, Presidents’ Day, the service begins at 9 a.m. and the RSG meets from 9:45 to 10:30.

With Jon-Jay Tilsen.

New sections may open this season. To register for the next session, contact Peggy at office@beki.org.

Wednesdays

Hebrew Word of the Week

The Wednesday morning service (shaharit) features a 180-second “Hebrew word of the Week” to promote the learning of Hebrew. The Hebrew language is highly structured. Most
When I receive the Kolot Magazine from the Voices of Conservative Masorti Judaism every month I put down what I am reading at the moment and read every bit of information from cover to cover. There is always something new and informative that I learn.

Of course the article I like most is written by Sarrae Crane, Executive Director of Women’s League for Conservative Judaism. She implies that undoubtedly, all of us have talents that we can share with our congregation and Sisterhood. Some of the talents are latent, some need polishing. Sisterhood is looking for our members to help put programs together as well as help run the Giftshop.

Do you like to sell and talk to people? This would be a great opportunity to help.

Respect – Eye to Eye
From God’s To Do List: 103 Ways to be an Angel and Do God’s Work on Earth, by Dr. Ron Wolfson:
Look at every human being you meet, Face to face, Eye to eye, Heart to heart
How does respect affect the way in which we meet or greet people for the first time?
How is looking another in the eye a sign of respect?
What is the difference between hearing and listening? How do we convey that we are listening?
How can we communicate warmth? Concern? Compassion?
Next time you are at services in the synagogue, ask yourself these questions.
Dr. Ron Wolfson is Fingerhut Professor of Education at the University of Judaism in Los Angeles.

Adult Studies

words are based on three-letter roots, and are made with a limited set of verb or noun forms. By learning a few dozen roots and a small set of word forms, it is possible to roughly translate Hebrew words isolated from any context, something less often possible in English. The Word of the Week often relates to the weekly scriptural readings, enhancing personal study and public Torah discussion.

Rabbis’ Study Group

Wednesdays with Murray is a weekly study group exclusively for rabbis, facilitated by Rabbi Murray Levine. The Wednesday study group affords local rabbis an opportunity to pursue their own talmud torah (Torah study) in a “safe” setting and with opportunities to learn from each other’s experience and insight.

The study group meets Wednesday mornings in the Rosenkrantz Family Library. The group will not meet on Jan. 2 and 9 and will resume on Jan 16. For more information, call Rabbi Murray Levine at (203) 397-2513.

Thursdays

Mini Morning Learning Service
The Thursday morning services are supplemented with commentary and teaching relating to the history, themes, choreography and language of the daily morning service. Shaharit service is from 8:15 to 9:15 on Thursdays; on other weekdays, the service begins at 7 a.m.

Sanhedrin Talmud Study Group
The Sanhedrin Talmud Study Group meets weekly on Thursdays during the lunch hour (12:30 to 1:30). The Group has met weekly since 1999. For some participants, this is their first direct experience with Talmud text; for others, it is a continuation of a long journey. The Group focuses on the issues raised in the Talmud, with less attention to the technical aspects of the text.

Knowledge of Hebrew or Aramaic is helpful but not required.

The Talmud, based on an oral text, has no beginning or end. One can begin study at any point; now is the best time. The Sanhedrin Talmud Study Group meets in BEKI’s Rosenkrantz Family Library. For information, contact Isaiah Cooper at his law office icoooper@cooperlaw.net.
