

Tu B'Shevat as a Gateway to Judaism and Sustainability

A BEKI Schmooze with Nigel Savage and Shamu Sadeh of Hazon

Wednesday January 20th at 8pm on Zoom

Nigel Savage is the President and CEO of Hazon, the Jewish lab for sustainability, and Shamu Sadeh is the Managing Director of Education at Hazon's Isabella Freedman Jewish Retreat Center, located in Litchfield County, CT. In advance of Tu B'Shevat, Nigel and Shamu will join us for a conversation about the powerful connections between environmental sustainability and ethical Jewish life, sharing lessons for us as individuals and as a Jewish community.

Hazon is the largest faith-based environmental organization in the U.S. and is building a movement that strengthens Jewish life and contributes to a more environmentally sustainable world for all. As the Jewish lab for sustainability, Hazon effects change through immersive experiences and inspires individuals and communities to make specific commitments to change with a particular focus on food systems. Isabella Freedman Jewish Retreat Center, located on 400 acres in Falls Village, CT, is a year-round farm-to-table kosher pluralistic retreat center and is the home of Hazon.
